

Privacy policy

Gemfish Publications is committed to protecting your privacy. This policy explains how we manage your personal information. Gemfish Publications complies with the Privacy Act 1993 regarding how we collect, use, disclose, store and give access to personal information.

Why do we collect information?

Information is collected purely for the purposes of: Providing you with excellent customer service Responding to and processing your requests and orders Notifying competition winners or fulfilling promotional obligations Informing you of, and providing you with, new and existing products and services offered by Gemfish Publications and selected third parties from time to time.

How do we ensure the security of your information?

We do not use personal information that was obtained in connection with one purpose for any other purpose, unless authorised by you. Information is held securely and only accessed by authorised Privacy Officers and third parties who assist us with the operation of our business. Gemfish Publications takes steps to ensure that everything within the power of the business is done to prevent unauthorised use or unauthorised disclosure of the information. We do not sell or provide your personal information to others.

What are your rights?

You are entitled to access and request correction to your information (we may require proof of identity before we disclose any information to you). Should you no longer wish to receive any communications from us, you may opt out by contacting us via the email address below.

How can you contact us with questions or concerns about our privacy policy? Please feel free to contact us.